"I repeat with great earnestness the recommendation which I have made mention in previous messages, to the inadequate support given the American company engaged in the construction of the Nicaragua ship canal. It is impossible to overstate the value from every standpoint of this great enterprise, and I hope there may be time given in this Congress to give it an impetus that will insure the early completion of this canal and secure to the United States its proper relations to it when completed."-President Harrison's Annual Message.

Crop Notes from South America Recent shipments of lemons grown in Trinidad have realized $400 per acre, the trees being planted fifteen feet apart and ninety to the acre.

During the present year the area planted in vines in Uruguay will be doubled, the present production being about 2,000,000 gallous. The total consumption of wine is about 20,000,000 gallons, all of which Uruguay hopes to produce within a decade.

The agricultural section of Chili contains 43,418,000 acres, the soil being extremely fertile. Wheat yields are enormous, corn and barley do well, as also rye and eats; but the latter two are not very largely grown. At one time Chili exported grain to California.

The Guatemala coffee crop is steadily increasing. It has doubled in ten years. Manioc, a plant indigenous to Braril, grows abundantly, and the root is used as a substitute for wheat flour, though less nutritious. About 20,000,000 pounds of this flour are received yearly at Rio Janeiro, and 5,000,000 pounds are exported.

Twelve gold mines, employing about sixty men, are now being worked in the northwestern part of Sonora. Some Facts About Brazilian Coffice. In Sao Paulo, Brazil, there are two coffee plantations, the larger with 600, 000 trees, of which 250,000 are in bear ing. This plantation produced 640,000 pounds of coffee in 1887; last year, 448, 000 pounds, when great losses were experienced, and this year the crop is estimated by the best experts at 1,280,000 pounds, and should reach during the next three or four years, when all the trees are in bearing, an output of 2,560, 000 pounds. The other plantation has 32,000 coffee trees, which are now so enormously loaded with fruit as to ob struct the seven-foot paths between them. The above details are interesting as showing that in Brazil they obtain in favorable localities and good seasons a yield of from four to six pounds to the
